A group of people, likely researchers or students, are standing on a dirt path. They are wearing blue jackets and backpacks, suggesting they are on an expedition or field study. They are looking towards a steep, eroded hillside. A blue tarp is visible on the hillside, possibly covering equipment or a structure. The ground is uneven and appears to be a mix of dirt and rocks.

A photograph showing three hikers from behind as they walk along a dirt trail through a dense forest. The hiker in the foreground is wearing a blue jacket and a white backpack. The hiker in the middle is wearing a bright yellow-green jacket. The hiker in the background is wearing a blue jacket. The trail is covered with fallen leaves and branches, and the forest is filled with tall trees and thick foliage.

A group of five hikers, three men and two women, are standing on a dirt path at a mountain junction. They are wearing winter hiking gear, including jackets, hats, and backpacks. In the center, a wooden signpost points in different directions with labels in Japanese: '鷲頭山' (Ryuto-san) with an elevation of 3,927m, '志村山・徳倉山' (Shimura-san・Tokura-san) with an elevation of 1,617m, and '旧津アルプス' (Kyu Tsu Alps). A smaller sign below it says '志・ア山・南' (Shi-A-san-nan). The hiker on the far right is holding a trekking pole. The background shows a misty, mountainous landscape.
